

Arpora, India

Deadly fire At least 25 people have been killed in a nightclub fire in northern Goa. Hundreds of partygoers escaped the late-night blaze at the venue, in the popular village of Arpora; most of those killed were staff who became trapped in the basement kitchen. Investigators cited faulty electrics or fireworks set off in the club as likely causes of the blaze. At least four people, including the manager, have been arrested, but the club's owners, two brothers, have allegedly fled to Thailand.
