

Test of courage

India defeat England to draw series

India completed a dramatic Test match win, squaring the series 2-2 with a six-run victory after Chris Woakes tried to carry England over the line with a dislocated shoulder.

England arrived on the final day of the Test needing 35 runs to complete a chase of 374.

They lost four wickets for 28 as Jamie Smith, Jamie Overton, Josh Tongue and Gus Atkinson succumbed to pressure at the Oval.

Woakes, pictured right, who is expected to be out for several months with the injury he sustained in the field on Friday, came out holding the bat in his right hand, with his left arm bundled up in a sling under his sweater.

He joined the fray with 17 runs still needed and was grimacing in pain throughout his brief stay.

