

PHOTOS BY HASSE FERROLD

It's been a busy month for the diplomatic corps. German ambassador Claus Krumrei, Canadian ambassador Emi Furuya, Slovenian ambassador Tone Kajzer and Czech ambassador Jiri Brodsky (left: left-right) were all present at Dansk Erhverv's debate on globalisation at Børsen on April 27. Furuya and Georgian ambassador Gigi Gigidadze were among the guests of South African ambassador Zindzi Mandela at her country's national day celebrations on April 28 at the Hellerup Park Hotel (centre left). Iranian ambassador Morteza Moradian was present when Yukiya Amano (green tie), the director general of the International Atomic Energy Agency, visited the Danish Institute for International Studies on May 11 (centre right). And Indian ambassador Rajev Shahare hosted a reception following a screening of Leena Yadav's (blue dress) film 'Parched', the opening film of the Ny Indisk Filmserie at Cinemateket on May 12 (right)

April became May with two poignant days for the Australian community: the marking of Anzac Day on April 25 at Kastelet and then a farewell reception for ambassador Damien Miller (left and right) on May 2. Among those paying their respects on a day that marks the landing of Australian and New Zealand troops at Gallipoli in 1915 were British ambassador Dominic Schroeder (centre). And then at his reception, Miller was joined by numerous members of the diplomatic corps

It's been a busy month for the House of International Theatre at Huset. First it hosted a production of Alan Bennett's 'Talking Heads' by Malmo group Playmate starring (left: left-right) Robin Gott, Kevin Benn and Vanessa Poole (see cphpost.dk for our five star review) in late April. Poole, who is also a member of resident group Down the Rabbit Hole, was rather taken by the work of Czech artist Jiří Slíva, whose work currently adorns the walls of HIT (centre) - we wonder why! And the same was true of the cast of 'Lovers, Authors and Other Strangers' (four star review at cphpost.dk and details of future performances on page 21), a co-production by Rabbit Hole and Berlin group Manusarts. Pictured (right: left-right) are actor Rasmus Emil Mortensen, Jiří Slíva, actresses Jana Pulkrabek and Katrin Weisser, director Jeremy Thomas-Poulsen, actress Dina Rosenmeier and Czech ambassador Jiri Brodsky

Austrian ambassador Ernst-Peter Brezovsky was among the attendees at the world premiere of 'Big Time', a new film about star architect Bjarke Ingels, at the Copenhagen Architecture Festival (April 27-May 7)

Portuguese ambassador Rui Macieira was all smiles after his country won their first ever Eurovision Song Contest. The best they had previously managed was sixth in 48 appearances

Icelandic ambassador Benedikt Jonsson, Norwegian ambassador Ingvard Havnen, Swedish ambassador Frederik Jörgensen and Finnish ambassador Ann-Marie Nyroos all gathered for Nordens Dag at Sted Nordens Hus