

INDIAN FILM FESTIVAL TO SHOW WOMEN TALENT

For the last sometime in the field of filmmaking, more & more women are showing their talent & entering this world of glamour as directors, cinematographers, editors, art directors and other branches, besides of course acting. They are making short films, documentaries and animation films of their choices and commitments. The present film program, in some ways, has this curatorial imagination in mind – to reflect the changes in the screen persona of the woman and to see how even popular Indian cinema does that and that's the theme of this Film Festival 'The women in Bollywood'. To celebrate India@70 H.E. the Ambassador of India, Rajeev Shahare's effort, Embassy of India Copenhagen planned an Indian Film festival from 12th to 28th of May 2017. With the Gala opening on 12th May at Danish Film Institute premises Cinemateket, in Copenhagen. The film PARCHED will be screened at the Gala opening. The much younger Film Director, Leena Yadav, has been invited to attend the Gala opening. The films selected for the Indian Film Festival 2017 are, Parched, The Role (Bhoomika), Mirch Masala, Kahaani, English Vinglish, Mary Kom, Queen, NH10, PIKU, Original Copy, Neerja, The Cinema Travelers. The Indian Film Festival is sponsored by Embassy of India in Denmark, Air India, Incredible India Tourism and National Film Development Corporation (NFDC and Danish Film Institute (DFI). After the screening, Question & Answers with the Director Leena Yadav and Short Indian Bollywood Dance and Reception (finger food and wine) will be held. The Festival will continue to another big city of Denmark, Aarhus, where 3 films, Kahaani, Mary Kom and Queen will be screened on 19 to 21st May at Paradis Cinema in Aarhus.

'CARAT+' DIAMOND EXHIBITION HELD IN BELGIUM DIAMOND'S FUTURE DISCUSSED

CARAT+ concluded its final day of trading on a positive note, with official data indicating a strong debut for the new diamond and diamond-jewellery exclusive trade show. This year's three-day CARAT+ diamond exhibition held in Antwerp, the capital of Belgium from May 7 to 9. The expo recorded 2.927 visitors from 29 different countries. Around 116 exhibitors from 14 countries showcased their well crafted diamond jewellery. This exhibition is also known Diamond platform of Professionals. Speaking during an exclusive presentation on the second day of CARAT+, Jewelry design and trends expert Paola De Luca focused exclusively on diamonds, and more specifically how social changes and new-generation consumers are impacting the sector. The industry must become to attuned to what is happening in the social networks, she said, for it is there that Millennial consumers indicate product directions, tastes and habits. Also, she added, bridal jewellery is changing, largely because of changing perceptions of partnership and marriage. ■
